

NJ Land Link

Are you looking for farmland?
Do you have land available and are looking for a farmer?
Visit www.njlandlink.org today!

NJ Land Link (www.njlandlink.org) is a linking site developed by the State Agriculture Development Committee (SADC) in collaboration with the Northeast Organic Farming Association of New Jersey (NOFA-NJ) and Rutgers Office of Research Analytics to help farmers and landowners connect with one another directly on land access and farming opportunities throughout NJ. Landowners can post listings describing their available farmland while farmers can create profiles to describe their farmland needs and goals. The site also has resources related to leasing land, educational programs, agricultural organizations, and other topics.

Available Opportunities Include:

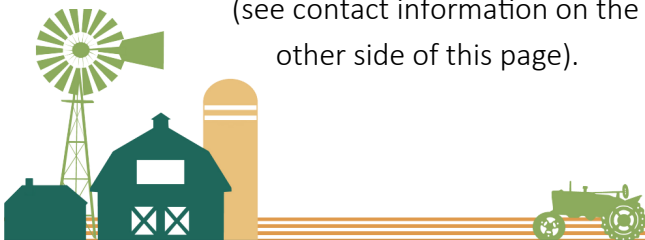

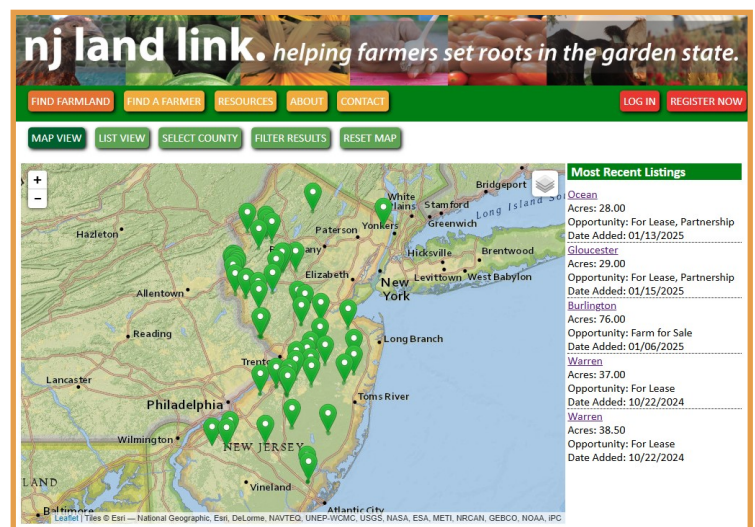

- Short-term and long-term leases
- Beginning farmer opportunities
- Farm manager positions
- Farmland for sale
- Partnerships
- Other positions

Visit www.njlandlink.org to explore opportunities and click REGISTER NOW to create an account at no cost to you!

Create an account to access contact information for landowner and farmer listings, make a listing, and connect with SADC staff for direct assistance and resource referral.

All NJ Land Link listings have been recently confirmed as up to date. If you encounter an outdated listing or if a listing is not responding, please reach out to our team for assistance

(see contact information on the other side of this page).
